Another block to be constructed by resolution is on Eleventh street from Lane to West. Efforts were made last year to get a petition through that block when the street was paved from Fillmore to Lane street but it failed. It failed again this year but Mr. Thady thinks it should be paved for the benefit of those living east and west of it. The petition from that block this year had lifty signers.

Mr. Davis is a Welchman and he told of a letter he had just received from Wales. In this letter it was pointed out that women were running the street cars, sweeping the streets, working in the mines for four shillings a day where men used to get eight, laboring in the steel mills, and running the shops.

Mills Are Booming. Mills Are Booming.

"What will we do tomorrow, when we get into competition with such labor?" he asked again. "There is plenty of prospertly in Pennsylvania. Mills that have been idle are booming with millions of dollars worth of war orders. People are making fortunes selling munitions to kill the men in Europe. That is the kind of prosperity we are having in this country now."

High school and college fraternities, as well as secret societies in general, were roundly scored by Rev. M. A Kelsey, general agent of the National Christian association, who spoke on the subject at the Reformed Presbyterian church last evening. In apeaking of the present Topeka high school sorority trouble, Mr. Kelsey said:

"I believe that all right thinking people will write in to the board in support of its action. But there is a point I wish to raise in connection. Do not the objectionable features of these fraternities run back from the high school societies through the whole family of secret organization."

Dr. Keisey quoted from a college president who says that he objects to secret societies in college because of the opportunity given by secrecy to immoralities.

"In fact," Dr. Kelsey continued, "it appears that there is just as pronounced a conviction that college fraternities are evil in their tendencies as high school fraternities are not handled with the same vigor that high school fraternities are not so easily handled."

The Rev. Mr. Kelsey will speak again on the subject of secret societies at the Reformed Presbyterian church, 320 Clay street, tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

JINGOISM

We've got the ships, we've got the men, we've got the money, too," The above refrain, popular in England curing the war between Russia and Turkey, is typical of jlugoism as it existed in Great Britain then, as English sympathy was strongly with Turkey and hostile to Russia. From this arose the name "Jlugoism," which, in politics, has come to mean any advocacy of national bluster.
